

SGO 2027 Annual Meeting on Gynecologic Cancer Commercial Interests, Disclosure, Copyright, and Embargo Rules

Abstract and Surgical Film Sponsored by Commercial Interests

- An ineligible company is any entity whose primary business is producing, marketing, selling, re-selling, or distributing healthcare products used by or on patients. For specific examples of ineligible companies visit accme.org/standards.
- Examples of financial relationships include employee, researcher, consultant, advisor, speaker, independent contractor (including contracted research), royalties or patent beneficiary, executive role, and ownership interest. Individual stocks and stock options should be disclosed; diversified mutual funds do not need to be disclosed. Research funding from ineligible companies should be disclosed by the principal or named investigator even if that individual's institution receives the research grant and manages the funds.
- Presenters and distillants will not accept any honoraria, additional payments or reimbursements directly from a commercial interest for my participation in this activity.
- The presenting author of an abstract must NOT have a relevant/specific ownership interest, i.e., owner, founder, partner, etc., in the scientific content in the abstract. If a conflict of interest exists, the abstract must be presented by a co-author with no relevant ownership interests.
- If the presenting author is employed by an ineligible company, as defined above, an alternate presenter must be named.

Disclosure Rules

- Presenters are required to provide disclosure of relationships with commercial interests.
- Presenters are required to provide a balanced view of therapeutic options.

Copyright Policy and Presentation Use

By submitting an abstract or presenting at the SGO Annual Meeting, authors and presenters agree to the subsequent Copyright Policy:

- SGO will own the copyright for the audio/visual recording of oral presentations, slide decks, and/or digital ePosters, once presented at the meeting, which may be packaged/sold at SGO's sole discretion. Please contact education@sgo.org to obtain written permission to use these assets outside of the context of the SGO Annual Meeting.
- Presentations will be available online through the SGO Annual Meeting Event Platform for 60 days following the meeting. Selected content will be uploaded to the SGO ConnectEd platform following that date.

Exceptions may apply where:

- One or more authors are employees of the United States federal government acting within the scope of their official duties;
- Applicable law prohibits copyright transfer; or
- Institutional or funding-agency requirements mandate alternative copyright arrangements approved in writing by SGO.

Author Rights and Permitted Reuse

Subject to acknowledgment of SGO copyright ownership, authors retain the nonexclusive right to:

- Reuse the abstract in future scholarly manuscripts or full-length journal articles;
- Include the abstract in dissertations, theses, grant applications, or academic portfolios;
- Reproduce the abstract for educational or teaching purposes;
- Share copies with colleagues for noncommercial scientific use;
- Post the abstract on personal, institutional, or noncommercial repositories after official publication by SGO;
- Present the data orally at scientific or educational meetings; and
- Incorporate the abstract content into future derivative scholarly works authored by the submitting authors.

Any permitted reuse must include the following acknowledgment:

© Society of Gynecologic Oncology (Year). Reproduced with permission.

Authors are encouraged to link to the official SGO publication or meeting abstract page when feasible.

Embargo Rules

Abstracts submitted to the SGO Annual Meeting, including late-breaking abstract placeholders, are confidential and embargoed until SGO publishes the abstract online. Study data subsequently submitted for late-breaking abstracts are likewise confidential and embargoed. For data previously presented or published under an exemption, the Policy applies only to new or updated data in the abstract.

SGO requires all abstract authors and news media to abide by the following embargo times for reporting on oral abstracts and poster presentations:

- For oral PowerPoint presentations, the embargo lifts at 8am ET of the day on which the presentation is made.
- For all poster presentations and surgical films, the embargo is lifted at 8am ET on the first day of the meeting
- Session titles and times, presentation titles, and author names are embargoed until they are made publicly available by SGO.
- Full abstracts for oral and poster presentations shall be made available to registered attendees up to two weeks before the meeting.
- Full abstracts may be made available to the approved news media upon individual request in advance of the meeting provided they agree to abide by the embargo policy and approval by SGO.

Use of Artificial Intelligence (AI) in Abstract Preparation

SGO permits the limited use of artificial intelligence (AI) tools in the preparation of abstracts. Authors are expected to prepare the original scientific content and draft the abstract themselves. AI tools may be used to assist with language refinement, grammar, syntax, or organizational clarity.

All data submitted must derive from legitimate research activities and must not be fabricated, manipulated, or generated by AI.

Plagiarism Policy

By submitting an abstract to the SGO Annual Meeting, you are attesting that your submission is free from plagiarism, as defined by any of the following:

- Direct: Intentionally submitting another person's words or ideas verbatim as one's own.
- Self-plagiarism: Submitting work that has been previously published or presented.
- Mosaic plagiarism: Stringing together portions of text from other sources; and
- Lack of attribution: Failing to appropriately identify and cite sources for language or ideas that are incorporated.

Screening process: SGO screens all abstracts using anti-plagiarism software. Abstracts identified as having high levels of potentially plagiarized content will be evaluated by SGO staff and appropriate actions taken.
